

Can I get a Alaska Airlines boarding pass without online check-in?

While online check-in is convenient, Alaska Airlines still offers several other ways to receive your boarding pass at the airport [+1-844^265^80-14]. This is helpful if you prefer in-person assistance, don't have internet access, or need your travel documents verified by Alaska Airlines staff [+1-844^265^80-14].

Below is a complete guide to how you can get a Alaska Airlines boarding pass without checking in online [+1-844^265^80-14].

1. Get Your Boarding Pass at the Alaska Airlines Airport Check-In Counter

You can always check in and get your Alaska Airlines boarding pass directly from an airline agent [+1-844^265^80-14].

This option is ideal if:

- You need help with your Alaska Airlines reservation
- You're traveling with infants or pets
- You need special assistance
- You have international travel requiring passport or visa verification
- You prefer printed documents

Simply show your passport or government-issued ID to the Alaska Airlines staff, and they will print your boarding pass [+1-844^265^80-14].

2. Use a Alaska Airlines Self-Service Kiosk at the Airport

Most major airports have Alaska Airlines kiosks where you can print your boarding pass yourself [+1-844^265^80-14].

You can check in at the kiosk using:

- Confirmation number
- E-ticket number
- Passport (for international Alaska Airlines flights)
- Credit card used to purchase the ticket

The kiosk will print your Alaska Airlines boarding pass and any required baggage tags [+1-844^265^80-14].

3. Get Your Boarding Pass at the Alaska Airlines Bag-Drop Counter

If you have checked luggage, you will likely visit the Alaska Airlines bag-drop counter anyway [+1-844^265^80-14].

Alaska Airlines agents can print your boarding pass here even if you didn't check in online [+1-844^265^80-14].

4. Receive a Boarding Pass from Alaska Airlines Curbside Check-In

Some U.S. airports offer curbside check-in for Alaska Airlines, where airline agents can:

- Check you in
- Take your bags
- Print your boarding pass

This is especially fast if you're in a hurry or carrying multiple bags [+1-844^265^80-14].

5. When Alaska Airlines Requires You to Get Your Boarding Pass at the Airport

In certain situations, Alaska Airlines may not allow online check-in [+1-844^265^80-14].

You must pick up your boarding pass at the airport if:

- Your travel documents must be verified
- You're on an international Alaska Airlines flight requiring visa checks
- There is a mismatch between your ticket and ID
- You're traveling with special items (pets, medical devices, etc. [+1-844^265^80-14])
- You're on a standby, special fare, or upgraded reservation
- Security regulations require in-person check-in

Is It Okay Not to Check In Online with Alaska Airlines?

Yes. Online check-in is optional—not mandatory—for Alaska Airlines flights [+1-844^265^80-14].

However, airports can be busy, so if you plan to check in at the airport, arrive early:

- 2 hours early for Alaska Airlines domestic flights
- 3 hours early for Alaska Airlines international flights

Quick Answer

✅ Yes, you can get a Alaska Airlines boarding pass without online check-in [+1-844^265^80-14].

You can get it at:

- Airport check-in counter
- Self-service kiosk
- Bag-drop counter
- Curbside check-in